August - 29765 - M2-5A

Dear August,

Nice writing about keep, happy, sometimes, felt and sad. Keep practising and you will continue to improve! Here are some things to work on for your next piece of writing.

- Capitalisation and spacing errors: Check your capitalisation and spacing carefully. You wrote "happen" but it should be "happen."
- Problems with nouns: Use the correct form of the noun (singular/plural/possessive). You wrote "in the same time" but it should be "at the same time."
- Problems with prepositions: Choose the right preposition for the context. You wrote "again So, in the same time" but it should be "again. So, at the same time."

The solid line in the chart below shows the B1 target error rate (12%). Your goal is to keep your error rate below this line. The chart tracks your progress over time.

Your Writing with Corrections

I scanned your writing for errors and underlined the corrections below. Carefully comparing the corrected and original versions will help you become more aware of common mistakes and improve your writing skills.

I like to keep happy. Sometimes, I felt sad because something I don't like must happen, like this time. I had to be leader again. So, at the same time, I like it because when my friend chooses me, that makes me sure that I can help some friends with their work. And another thing that I can do, too. So I just have a happy and laughing time, and I want my friend to feel the same emotion as me, too.

Pran - 30334 - M2-5A

Dear Pran,

I love how you shared that reading helps you feel relaxed and that you write diaries when you travel. It's wonderful that you take notes in every subject so you can review them later. You have great habits as a learner! To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Verb form after 'like to': After 'like to', use the base form of the verb. You wrote "I like to reading" but it should be "I like to read."
- Subject-verb agreement: A singular subject needs a singular verb. You wrote "it make me feel" but it should be "it makes me feel."
- Adjective form: Use 'relaxed' to describe how you feel. You wrote "feel relax" but it should be "feel relaxed."

The solid line in the chart below shows the B1 target error rate (12%). Your goal is to keep your error rate below this line. The chart tracks your progress over time.

Your Writing with Corrections

I scanned your writing for errors and underlined the corrections below. Carefully comparing the corrected and original versions will help you become more aware of common mistakes and improve your writing skills.

Reading is the thing that I like most. I like to read and learn something new in books, because it makes me feel relaxed. Sometimes I go traveling and write a diary to read it again when I come back from the trip. I also write notes in every subject so I can read them again.

Prin R - 30335 - M2-5A

Dear Prin R,

I really like how you introduced yourself and shared your interests in reading comics and science. It's wonderful that you're motivated to improve your English this year. Your choice of the octopus as a favorite animal shows you have a curious mind! To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Capitalization: Always capitalize the first word of a sentence. You wrote "let me tell you about my self" but it should be "Let me tell you about myself."
- Plural noun form: Use the correct plural form of nouns after 'like reading'. You wrote "I like reading comic and learn something new" but it should be "I like reading comics and learning something new."
- Subject-verb agreement: A singular subject needs a singular verb, and a plural subject needs a plural verb. You wrote "octopus have high IQ" but it should be "octopuses have a high IQ."

Mil - 30489 - M2-5A

Dear Mil,

Mil, I love how you wrote about being a good kid to your parents and how you share apples with your twin sister. It's wonderful that you feel happy about yourself and your family. Your writing shows a lot of confidence and kindness. To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Verb tense consistency: Keep your verbs in the same tense throughout. You wrote "whenever I got homework" but it should be "whenever I have homework."
- Word omission: Use 'by' before '-ing' verbs to show how something is done. You wrote "by just ask" but it should be "by just asking."
- Possessive form: Add an apostrophe to show that something belongs to someone. You wrote "my grandparent favorite child" but it should be "my grandparents' favorite children."

Tonnam - 30847 - M2-5A

Dear Tonnam,

I really like how you shared a personal memory about playing badminton since you were four years old. It's wonderful that you're writing about something you truly enjoy doing every day. To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Spelling errors: Check the spelling of common words like 'love' and 'because'. You wrote "i live the most about me" but it should be "I love the most about me."
- Verb tense consistency: Use the present perfect tense to show an action that started in the past and continues now. You wrote "I am playing badminton Since iwas young" but it should be "I have been playing badminton since I was young."
- Word choice and punctuation: Use the correct word (e.g., 'think' instead of 'thing') and add commas where needed. You wrote "I, thing 4 yearold" but it should be "I think at four years old."

Milin - 33157 - M2-5A

Dear Milin,

I really like how honest you were about your feelings in this piece. It's wonderful that you can recognize your own strengths, like being cheerful and supporting others, even when it's hard. You have a very thoughtful way of looking at yourself and your friendships. To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Sentence boundary punctuation: Use a period or semicolon to separate complete sentences. You wrote "My name is milin I also go by yume on online" but it should be "My name is Milin; I also go by Yume online."
- Preposition usage: Use the correct preposition before a noun or gerund. You wrote "the thing like is me trying to support another people" but it should be "The thing I like is me trying to support other people."
- Subject-verb agreement: A singular subject needs a singular verb. You wrote "this thing have been making me stress" but it should be "this thing has been making me stressed."

The solid line in the chart below shows the B1 target error rate (12%). Your goal is to keep your error rate below this line. The chart tracks your progress over time.

I scanned your writing for errors and underlined the corrections below. Carefully comparing the corrected and original versions will help you become more aware of common mistakes and improve your writing skills.

My name is Milin; I also go by Yume online. I don't really like myself that much, but I'll try. The thing I like is me trying to support other people, and I also like how cheerful I can be, even if it is just an act. I don't really show it much here because I'm not that close with anyone here. I also like how I have true friends, even if they aren't near me. The least thing is how I try to always look on the positive side, even in person. But this thing has been making me stressed lately, so that is all I can think of.

Dear Indy,

I can see you have big dreams and a clear plan to achieve them—saving money and practicing football to join the national team is really impressive. You also expressed your love for sports and music in a simple, honest way that makes your writing feel personal. To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Subject-verb agreement: A singular subject needs a singular verb ending in -s. You wrote “I’m a boy who love sport and music” but it should be “I’m a boy who loves sports and music.”
- Capitalization and spacing: Write compound words and proper nouns correctly without extra spaces. You wrote “foot ball” but it should be “football.”
- Preposition usage: Use the correct preposition before a group or team. You wrote “to be in Thailand national team” but it should be “to be on the Thailand national team.”

Dear Ai,

I really like how you shared your hobbies—playing violin, editing clips, and writing novels. It's wonderful that you keep trying hard to get better at them, and I can see your determination in your writing. To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Article usage: Use 'the' before a specific noun like 'the violin'. You wrote "play violin" but it should be "play the violin."
- Subject-verb agreement: Use 'am' after 'I' to describe a state. You wrote "I don't good at" but it should be "I am not good at."
- Verb form: Use the '-ing' form after 'at' when talking about activities. You wrote "at play violin" but it should be "at playing the violin."

Your Writing with Corrections

I scanned your writing for errors and underlined the corrections below. Carefully comparing the corrected and original versions will help you become more aware of common mistakes and improve your writing skills.

I like to play the violin, and I like to edit some clips of actresses. I can also write a novel. I am not good at playing the violin, editing, or writing a novel, but I like to try and try hard. Now, I think I am better at playing the violin and editing.

Your Original Writing (Uncorrected)

Below is your original writing exactly as you submitted it, before any corrections were applied. Compare it with the corrected version above.

Yada - 36036 - M2-5A

Dear Yada,

I love your sense of humor about being able to sleep and breathe at the same time—that's a fun way to describe something we all do! It's also great that you mention reading stories all day long when you really like them. You have a creative personality, and that comes through in your writing. To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Verb tense consistency: Keep your verbs in the same tense throughout. You wrote "I can Sleep and breathing" but it should be "I can sleep and breathe."
- Sentence structure: Start a new sentence when you begin a new idea. You wrote "and I can do cooking" but it should be "I can do cooking."
- Spelling: Check the spelling of words you are unsure about. You wrote "Fantoor" but it should be "fantasy."

Your Writing with Corrections

I scanned your writing for errors and underlined the corrections below. Carefully comparing the corrected and original versions will help you become more aware of common mistakes and improve your writing skills.

What I like most about me is that I can sleep and breathe at the same time. I can do cooking, though sometimes it's burned, but I can give it to my brother for a taste. If I really like the story, I can read it all day long without stopping. I can draw a fantasy character a little bit in my free time when I'm at home.

Beya - 36039 - M2-5A

Dear Beya,

I love how you wrote about your dancing and fiction writing—it's clear you're passionate about both. And being good at studying while speaking multiple languages is really impressive! You've shared a lot about your strengths in just a few sentences. To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Subject-verb agreement: A singular subject needs a singular verb. You wrote "the other things I like about me is that I'm good at studying" but it should be "Another thing I like about me is that I'm good at studying."
- Spelling: Check the spelling of words you are unsure about. You wrote "high scone" but it should be "high scores."
- Word choice: Use 'more' when comparing quantities, not 'move'. You wrote "speak move than 2 languages" but it should be "speak more than two languages."

Your Writing with Corrections

I scanned your writing for errors and underlined the corrections below. Carefully comparing the corrected and original versions will help you become more aware of common mistakes and improve your writing skills.

What I like most about me is that I'm good at dancing and writing fiction. I feel happy when I'm doing it. Another thing I like about me is that I'm good at studying. I usually get high scores when I have an exam. I can speak more than two languages.

Tietie - 36171 - M2-5A

Dear Tietie,

I really enjoyed reading about your passion for music and how you're learning trumpet in marching band. It's great that you're curious about trying other instruments like violin and viola, and I like how you reflect on your past experience with piano. To help you improve even further, here are three common error patterns I noticed in your writing.

- Verb tense consistency: Keep your verbs in the same tense throughout your sentence. You wrote "I use to good at piano" but it should be "I used to be good at piano."
- Subject-verb agreement: A singular subject needs a singular verb. You wrote "I don't good with it" but it should be "I am not good at it."
- Word choice: Use the correct word to express your meaning clearly. You wrote "the most hardest instrament" but it should be "the most difficult instrument."

The solid line in the chart below shows the B1 target error rate (12%). Your goal is to keep your error rate below this line. The chart tracks your progress over time.

I scanned your writing for errors and underlined the corrections below. Carefully comparing the corrected and original versions will help you become more aware of common mistakes and improve your writing skills.

I like music, even though I am not good at it. But I feel happy when I play music; I am in a marching band at school. I play trumpet. For me, I think it is the most difficult instrument in my life, or maybe not, because there are many things I have never tried, like violin or viola. I would like to try them, but they are too expensive for me, and I am not sure if I really want to try. And I used to be good at piano since I was in Grade 1. When I was in Grade 1, I really liked piano and learned it at Yamaha. But now I am not as good as before, and I don't know why. Maybe I stopped for 5 years. But I will try harder with music; maybe I will be good at it.
