

Writing Accuracy Feedback Report

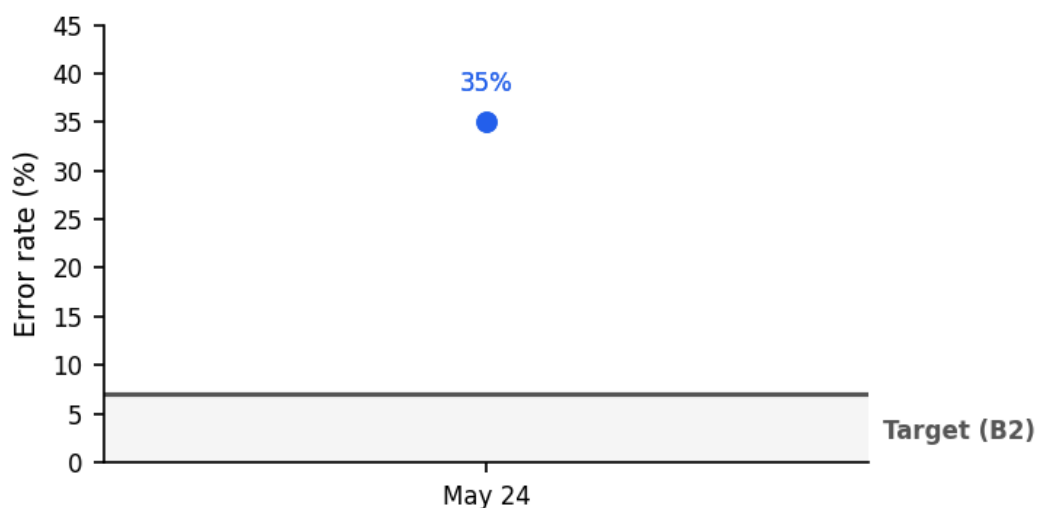

Grace - 34933 - M3-5A

Dear Grace,

I love how you shared that drawing helps you feel calm, especially when your mom took your phone away. It's really creative that you even drew a character to apologize to her. Your enthusiasm for different art styles like semi-real, cartoon, and anime comes through clearly. To improve even further, try to be aware of the following errors which I noticed in your work.

- Verb form after modal: After 'can', use the base form of the verb (no -ing). You wrote "I can drawing" but it should be "I can draw."
- Spelling and word form: Check the spelling and correct form of words you are unsure about. You wrote "I will get very anxiety" but it should be "I will get very anxious."
- Subject-verb agreement with 'there': Use 'there was' for one thing in the past, not 'That's have'. You wrote "That's have one day" but it should be "There was one day."

The solid line in the chart below shows the B2 target error rate (7%). Your goal is to keep your error rate below this line. The chart tracks your progress over time.

Your Writing with Corrections

I scanned your writing for errors and underlined the corrections below. Carefully comparing the corrected and original versions will help you become more aware of common mistakes and improve your writing skills.

That thing I like about myself is that I can draw for an hour without a phone. I think it's amazing because I (think) I am fully ADHD, like if I don't have a phone for an hour, I will get very anxious. So if I can draw for an hour without it, THAT IS SO AMAZING (for me). I draw many styles, like semi-realistic, cartoon, anime, and more. I like to draw when my mom keeps my phone away. I'm so sad. But I used to listen to podcasts while I draw. Sometimes I forget to listen, lol. Yeah, there was one day that my mother got very mad at me, so I drew some characters to say sorry to my mom. *TT means sad face.
